Water Properties

Enagic's Kangen Water® systems enhance nature's most vital life source, water, around the world.

Antioxidant

Elevated rates of oxidants and insufficient antioxidants in the body cause oxidative stress.

A constant supply of external sources of antioxidants should be part of one's daily diet, to reduce oxidative stress and related damage.

Hydrogen Rich

Water that is Hydrogen rich has a high concentration of Molecular Hydrogen (H2).

Molecular Hydrogen acts as an efficient antioxidant that diffuses rapidly across cell membranes and can reduce free radicals, suppressing oxidative stress.

Alkaline

Optimal health begins with balance. Our bodies must maintain a pH balance of 7.365, which is slightly alkaline.
A pH scale is used to determine whether a substance is acidic or alkaline.
On this scale anything above 7 is considered alkaline and anything below 7 is considered acidic.

Negative ORP

Hydrogen rich water is characterised by exhibiting a negative ORP. A high ORP value (in positive numbers), indicates that a substance has a higher oxidizing potential. For humans a positive or high ORP is better for the outside of the body (cleaning and sanitizing). A low ORP value (in negative numbers) indicates that a substance has a higher antioxidizing potential, and is preferred for oral consumption.

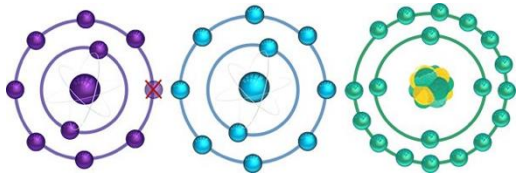

This is why everyone should not only care about the quantity of the water we drink, but also about the quality. Both are essential for our wellbeing

The human body is 70% water

If you want to feel good and be at your optimal health level, you should drink water on daily basis.

But not just any type of water!

Do you drink plastic bottled water?

Improper water storage contributes to plastic degradation and the deterioration of water quality.

A typical 1-liter water bottle contains about 240,000 plastic fragments on average.

The nanoplastics found in plastic containers represent a great threat to human health because they penetrate human cells, enter the bloodstream, and impact organs.

Did you know 8,000,000 tons of plastic is dumped in the ocean every year?
